What's New In Adobe Photoshop 2022 (version 23)?

“We will look like a whole new team,” Owen says of this year's group. “We’re not the greatest team of the seven. We’ve got a lot of work to do. I think we’re well on our way to do that. We’re capable of any hurdle that we need to overcome.” “We’re more of a team of (seventh) graders.” IN FACT ... “I can promise you this: We’re not going to be a team we’re used to being,” Lewis says. “I’m not saying we can’t be successful, but if we weren’t in a new situation, in a new place, we’d be the best team. If we were, we’d be the seventh graders of this group of seniors.” The team’s first practice was Tuesday morning. The red-and-white jerseys came off by the end of the afternoon. “I want them to come out of the locker room ready to play,” Lewis says. “I think we got a good feel for some things,” Overstreet says. “I think we can get better. We’re still raw. We’re not even close to being a complete team.” HILL AND KIDD NOT STARTING Karen Hill, who missed the previous three games with a concussion, has missed practice this week. So have David Kidd and James Edwards. Hill injured her ankle early in the season against Barton. She played a few seconds, then went down in the second half. She reaggravated the injury against LCHS in Chapel Hill and had to leave the game. She’s missed the last two games, with Saturday’s being the first since she suffered the injury. “She’s a little banged up,” Lewis says. “I’m hoping it’s not anything that’s going to last longer than a couple of days.” Kidd and Edwards have each missed one game. Edwards suffered a leg injury at LCHS. Last week, Hill and Edwards were out with injuries, too. “We don’t
